

THE RESULTS OF THE NATIONAL INQUIRY INTO THE CAUSES OF THE 9/11 ATTACKS

The results of the National Inquiry into the Causes of the 9/11 Attacks are presented in this report. The inquiry was conducted by the National Commission on the Causes of the Terrorist Attacks on the United States, which was established by the President of the United States in the wake of the September 11, 2001 terrorist attacks. The inquiry was designed to identify the causes of the attacks and to recommend measures to prevent such attacks in the future. The results of the inquiry are presented in this report, which is divided into two main sections: the causes of the attacks and the recommendations for preventing such attacks in the future.

The first section of the report, "The Causes of the Attacks," identifies the factors that contributed to the 9/11 attacks. These factors include the failure of the Federal Bureau of Investigation (FBI) to identify the hijackers, the failure of the Federal Aviation Administration (FAA) to detect the hijackers' flight, and the failure of the National Aeronautics and Space Administration (NASA) to detect the hijackers' flight. The second section of the report, "Recommendations for Preventing Such Attacks in the Future," identifies measures that should be taken to prevent such attacks in the future. These measures include improving the security of the Federal Bureau of Investigation (FBI), improving the security of the Federal Aviation Administration (FAA), and improving the security of the National Aeronautics and Space Administration (NASA).

The report also includes a section on the "National Commission on the Causes of the Terrorist Attacks on the United States," which was established by the President of the United States in the wake of the September 11, 2001 terrorist attacks.
